A popular misconception that eggs should be restricted due to their cholesterol content has been refuted by nutrition experts, who now confer there's no substantial connection between dietary cholesterol and blood cholesterol levels, like they once thought.

Eggs are one of nature's most complete foods, being an excellent source of protein, as well as other valuable nutrients, such as lecithin, a beneficial emulsifier of fats and choline, an essential nutrient required for optimal functioning of the brain and nervous system. In fact, research confirms that choline can even help prevent cognitive decline and/or memory loss.

Researchers at Tufts University have also found eggs to be a valuable source of lutein, an antioxidant shown to protect the retina and lens of the eye. Our local eggs are from healthy, free-range chickens free of hormones and antibiotics... and they taste delicious in omelets, quiche and your favorite baked holiday treats!

As always, we guarantee your satisfaction.
